

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A portable computer and base member arrangement having a base member and a portable computer is disclosed. The base member has two stop flanges protruded upwardly from the top face in two rear corners and adapted to engage two recessed locating holes of the portable computer after attachment of the portable computer to the base member, and a swinging retainer plate fastened pivotally with the front side and provided with two retaining rods adapted to engage into corresponding retaining holes in the front peripheral side of the portable computer to lock the portable computer to the base member after engagement between the recessed locating holes with protruded retaining portions of the stop flanges of the base member.